A classic of American musical theater, this tale of life on the Mississippi from the 1880s to the 1920s is both a love story and a powerful reminder of the bitter legacy of racism. Director Francesca Zambello's grand-scale production is "a triumph—a stylish, fast-paced and colorful show that had the audience on its feet, cheering loud and long" (Chicago Classical Review). The Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein II score, which includes such classics as "Ol' Man River," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" and "Make Believe," will sound glorious "under the authoritative baton of music-theater maestro John DeMain" (Chicago Tribune). Travelers will have the option of a pre-opera talk in the theater.
